ANALYSIS OF THE RESULT

The gender specific social norm that is administered among the community emphasizes that a male should be more dominant than female and female should be more subservient than male. This is due to the traditional culture of the community which values male dominance and female submission.
This is reflected in the way the community
manages its resources and the way it manages its members. The community members are expected to follow the rules and regulations set by the community leaders.

The analysis of the results shows that the community members are more concerned about their
own welfare than the welfare of the community.
The community members are more concerned about their
own welfare than the welfare of the community.
The community members are more concerned about their
own welfare than the welfare of the community.
The community members are more concerned about their
own welfare than the welfare of the community.

1. Teacher made written tests essentially based on Optional subject

"Assessment for learning" is one of the core paper in the B.ed curriculum, students made a through theoretical knowledge about various assessment tools and technique, besides this all the teachers in their Pedagogy classes discuss in detail how to develop an achievement test in the subject. In the subject Assessment of learning, they are told about all different types of tests - Written, Verbal, Subjective, Objective based and objective type. The students are then told to prepare some of these. So, they get a good practice of preparing Achievement Tests in their subject.

2. Observation modes for individual and group activities

In the second semester students' teachers have the opportunity of observing the classes of senior teachers in the school. The students are preparing and practice and using observation schedules and observation check lists for observing lesson plans. In the third semester (school internship) also students observe the teaching of their peers in the school. They also use observation schedules for observing peer lessons in Micro as well as Macro lessons.

3. Performance tests

The students are given practice in developing various performance tests. A performance test is an assessment that requires an examinee to perform a task or activity, rather than simply answering questions referring to specific parts. The purpose is to ensure greater fidelity to what is being tested.

4. Oral assessment

Students in that kind of test are required to use conversation skills that they have learned throughout the course. It is an open-ended test where the students lead a discussion with the teacher or dialogue speaking (oral interview).

5. Rating Scales

Developing or adapting- a good rating scale can improve evaluation of learners by providing clear and consistent criteria. These can also be communicated to the learners themselves and form part of a syllabus structure or portfolio. Learners can rate their own or a classmate's work against a rating scale to help them become more aware of what is important to work on.
