Introduction

According to S.M. Lacey: "Action research is conducted by a person in order to enable him to achieve his purpose more effectively." A teacher conducts action research to improve his administrative behaviour. Action research is either research initiated to solve an immediate problem or a reflective process of progressive problem solving led by individuals working with others in teams or as a part of a community practice to improve the way they address issues and solve problems.

In schools, action research refers to a wide variety of evaluative, investigative, and analytical research methods designed to diagnose problems or weakness, whether organizational, academic or instructional and help educators develop practical solutions to address them quickly and effectively.

Identification of the Problem

During my teaching internship in St. Peter's and St. Paul's School Meenambadi, I found that some of the students in VIA class had a problem in writing English, and failure to provide accuracy in the spelling of English leads to unsuccessful exam results. I understand that, this is the main reason of students failing frequently in exams. They didn't even know to write simple sentences in English. The main problem they faced was the inefficiency to write simple words.
